Supply List

A drawing pencil – HB (medium soft) or 2B (soft)

A kneaded eraser

A small sketch book - whatever size you are comfortable taking on a hike

Paper – Two 9” x 12” Strathmore cold press watercolor paper pads with 12 sheets each (series #300, 140 lb.)

Board - One 11” x 14” hardboard panel - available at Blick’s (dickblick.com) or you can use a piece of plywood or plexiglass large enough to tape your 9” x 12” paper on to.

Watercolor Paint – one small tube each of student grade Winsor & Newton Cotman brand watercolor paint in Lemon yellow, French ultramarine blue and Alizarin crimson.

Brushes- 1 inch wide flat watercolor brush for washes, 2 smaller flat brushes varying in size, 2 or 3 round brushes varying in size and an old tooth brush or a stencil brush.

You do not have to spend a lot of money on expensive brushes, just make sure they are water color brushes and not meant for oil or acrylic paints. I like bamboo brushes usually coming from Japan or China. They are inexpensive, and you can get a variety of brush marks from them.

Palette – You will need a water color palette (they come in plastic or metal). It is always a good idea to have extra jar tops, saucers or Tupperware lids for extra puddle mixing.

Other supplies: A plastic water jar, a roll of toilet paper with no added scent or moisturizer, a roll of drafting tape or art tape (no masking tape, please), a pipette, eye dropper or drinking straw.

Carrying case for supplies - a light tool or fishing box, cloth bag or back pack.
