Welcome!

I am writing to thank you for registering for my High Desert Harvest: Botanical Portraits workshop at Ghost Ranch, Sunday-Friday, August 4-9.

When you arrive on Sunday, August 4, you will check in at the Welcome Center after 3:00 pm. There you will receive information, including your room assignment and door code, and a map.

After dinner on Sunday, there will likely be a brief orientation session for all participants in the week's workshops. Afterwards, I will greet you and share details of our week.

On Monday, August 5, our workshop sessions will begin at 9:00 am and go until noon. Our very comfortable classroom will be in the Art Building, where there is also drinking water, a kitchen, and restrooms. After lunch, you will be free to continue working semi-independently (I will at least drop in)...or to rest or enjoy other activities, such as hiking, horseback riding, or ranch tours. I will offer guided nature walks after dinner (weather permitting). This will be our daily schedule through August 8.

Check-out time on Saturday, August 9, will be 10:00 am.

Be sure to obtain the art supplies on the Materials List for this workshop (from the course description page on the website). Feel free to email me if you have a question about something on the list.

Also, be sure to bring these Ghost Ranch essentials:

water bottle

sun hat

sturdy shoes (for walking &/or hiking on uneven ground)

sunglasses

sunscreen

insect repellent

clothing layers (it's likely to be quite warm [though not humid] during the days, & cool at night)

swim suit

rain jacket (just in case)

small day pack (very handy to have)

I look forward to working with you!

Helen
